All the Colors

By John Van Geem

Sensing the tension I stare at the ground.
Nobody moves, no one makes a sound.
“My names Johnnie Crown, I’m new to this school.
Is this Art One-O-One?”
“You’re in the wrong room”

First day of school,
Can’t get it right.
Dressed like a fool,
Feeling uptight.
Five minutes late,
Not a good start,
I want to be invisible.

Hind me behind a wall
No one looks.
No one stares,
No one cares.

Just then I saw her, a bombshell in blue.
Dark hair with green eyes, she looked right at me.
“Aaaa Hey, are you new here?” (I almost passed out).
“If you’re going to Art class, you can follow me down”

First day of school,
Getting it right,
Check out this girl,
Foxy Mc’Knight
Heading to class,
Couldn’t believe it’s just my luck, the class was full...

Full of hotties like her.
Pitch me now.
Is this Heaven?
